This handbook is an evolving work that we hope will be available to guide parents through their children's treatment for neuroblastoma until the day a cure is found. It has been "in the making" for many months, from its genesis in discussions over a bottle of wine, through telephone conferences and countless emails, to this on-line (and printable) document, which will continue to grow. Along the way, numerous members of the NB community have contributed their ideas, time, and talents to this project. Indeed, too many people have contributed for us to list their names here. We hope all the NB parents who find this resource will share their insights into how to cope with the daily challenges of NB treatment. Thank you from CNCF to all of those who have helped so far and all who will help in the future. We are very grateful to have you on our team!
